Migrant and Seasonal Farmworker Identification and Documentation Training

This is a one hour webinar or face-to-face training offered on-demand by FACHC to prepare front and back office staff how to consistently and accurately identify farmworker patients and document their status in the patient's records.

We invite FQHC board members and other staff to participate to learn more about this population.

Participants will understand:

- Nuances of HRSA's definition of "Migrant and seasonal farmworkers"
- Agricultural categories included and excluded from the definition
- Recent changes broadening the definition of "Agriculture," to include certain livestock in addition to crops
- The reasons it's critical to capture this information
- The barriers and challenges farmworkers and their families face in accessing healthcare
- Forms and questions to facilitate and standardize the intake process
